

Due Dates: Thursday,
Jan. 11, 2018

Name: _____

Coordinating Conjunctions: FANBOYS Practice

for and nor but or yet so

Directions: Use an appropriate "FANBOYS" coordinating conjunction to combine each pair of sentences below. Write your new sentence on the lines below each pair.

Write neatly and remember CUPS (capitalization, understanding, punctuation and spelling).

1. Ms. Beg and Ms. Nolan are excited about the NFL playoffs. They are cheering for different teams.

2. Mr. Fernandez likes football too. He teaches flag football after school.

3. Mrs. Sydney was busy setting up a science experiment. She stopped to help a student anyway.

4. Ms. Hall read The Polar Express to her classes. The holidays were coming up.

Directions: Fix the following run-on sentences using an appropriate "FANBOYS" coordinating conjunctions. You do NOT need to write out the new sentence. Just mark your changes as shown in the example below, including punctuation.

Example:

Ms. Clarke-Marshall said it was very cold today, ^{so} students would have indoor recess.

1. Glebe Elementary families are getting ready for Multi-Cultural Night they are putting together displays about legends from different countries.
2. The displays may have games to play they may have food to taste.
3. Mr. Walter said there would be pizza bites in the cafeteria tomorrow he didn't say when there would be chicken nuggets again.
4. Students can buy plain milk in the cafeteria they can buy chocolate milk.
5. Mr. Gray asked all fifth graders to bring pencils to P.E. students would have them to answer questions.
6. When P.E. ended, students left the hoops in the gym they placed the balls in the bins.
7. Ms. Bok and Mr. Carr could teach students new songs for the spring they may have students practice songs they already know.
8. Some fifth graders are singing with the Swanson Middle School chorus they will get to know the chorus teacher and chorus members there.
9. Not everyone will be going to Williamsburg Middle School everyone will get to hear the Williamsburg chorus perform.
10. Fifth Graders will be moving to new schools next year they can always come home to Glebe.